The John C. Stennis Space Center is a NASA rocket testing facility located in Hancock County. It was built in the 1960s to test the Apollo rocket engines that took the astronauts to the moon. Space Shuttle engines and the new SLS rocket engines also have been tested there.

The nearby Infinity Science Center is the public NASA Visitor and Science Museum for Stennis.

A rocket engine being tested.