The city of Leland was where Kermit the Frog's creator Jim Henson lived from 1936-1948. Kermit was born from Henson's childhood memories playing along Deer Creek, where the birthplace of Kermit the Frog museum is now located.