Columbia was formed six years before Mississippi became a state. It’s named for Columbia, S.C. (where many of its settlers were from). It served as the temporary Mississippi capital in Nov. 1821 to 1822, inaugurating Gov. Walter Leake and selecting Lefleur’s Bluff as capital (today known as Jackson).