The Greenville Bridge was the fourth-longest cable-stayed bridge when it opened in 2010. It carries US 82 and US 278 over the Mississippi River. It replaced the obsolete Benjamin Humphreys Bridge. Construction began in 2001. It cost $336 million.