The former Greyhound bus station in downtown Jackson was the site of many arrests during the Freedom Rides in May, 1961. During the next four months, 329 people were arrested in town - many were sent to Parchman. Built in 1938, the Art Deco building has been preserved and serves as an architect’s office. (It also inspired the Bacon Brothers’ song “I Feel You.”)