Saint Mark’s Episcopal Church in Raymond, built in 1854, is the oldest church structure in town. It suffered damage during the Civil War when it was used as a Union hospital. Blood stains are still visible on the old pine floors.